ARENA DI VERONA - Verona

BOCELLI, DOMINGO & CARRERAS
in
“The show is about to begin”

Date: 01 June 2013 at 9.00 p.m.

Andrea Bocelli, Jose' Carreras e Plácido Domingo exceptionally together to celebrate "100 years of Opera" at the most beautiful theater in the world, the Arena di Verona.

A unique and unrepeatabe experience, it will be an evening entirely dedicated to melodrama and to those extraordinary operatic arias and romances which have shaped the myth of opera through history.

The most renowned and striking moments of these operas will be performed for this centennial edition of the Festival: Aida, Nabucco, La Traviata, Il Trovatore, Messa Da Requiem, Rigoletto, Romeo Et Juliette.

The television preview of the Arena Opera Festival, will be hosted by Antonella Clerici and will be broadcast live on the Raiuno channel which is the main national television channel of Rai Radiotelevisione Italiana.

It will be a unique and impressive setting, the protagonists being the Choir and Orchestra who will perform under the masterful direction of Conductors Julian Kovatchev, Marcello Rota and Plácido Domingo, along with all the performers – a company of over 500 artists – in their splendid costumes; a “live” performance, a spectacle within the spectacle; the Arena will be in its full operatic configuration, with the stone terraces prominently in sight and the settings created by majestic lighting effects as well as personalized scenography for each opera.
